Distribution Requirements (from 4 to 18 additional credits):

A course being used to fulfill a major or minor requirement can also be used to fulfill a distribution requirement. The total credits needed to fulfill distribution requirements will be less for a student who majors in one division and minors in another. In fact, for example, since a Media Studies course may be counted either toward the Practicing Arts or toward the Humanities distribution requirement, a major in Human Rights & International Law who minors in Media Studies will thereby fulfill all the distribution requirements except the one in Natural Sciences and Computing.

Humanities: 6 credits:

Any 2 courses each 3 credits or more, from this list, OR any course cross-listed to Literature & Society or Media Studies.
